Mailing Lists

The Opticks Community provides two e-mail lists for the community to ask questions and communicate with each other.

- User Mailing List - this mailing list is for analysts and end-users of Opticks to ask questions and communicate with other users.
- Developer Mailing List - this mailing list is for extension developers and Opticks developers. If you're working on creating an extension for Opticks this is the place to ask questions and communicate with other developers.

User Mailing List

This mailing list is for analysts and end-users of Opticks to ask questions and communicate with other users.

Reading previous messages

You can read the message archives at one of the following sites:

- opticks.org
- nabble.com
- sourceforge.net

Post a question to the mailing list

To post a question to the list, you must first subscribe to the opticks-users mailing list on sourceforge.net and NOT on this site (opticks.org). The reason subscription is required is to cut down on spam to the list.

Once you have subscribed, you can post a question by sending an e-mail to opticks-users@lists.sourceforge.net.

Subscribe to get new messages via e-mail

In order to get new messages via e-mail, you must subscribe to the opticks-users mailing list on sourceforge.net and NOT on this site (opticks.org).

Developer Mailing List

This mailing list is for extension developers and Opticks developers. If you're working on creating an extension for Opticks this is the place to ask questions and communicate with other developers.

Reading previous messages

You can read the message archives at one of the following sites:

- opticks.org
- nabble.com
- sourceforge.net

Post a question to the mailing list

To post a question to the list, you must first subscribe to the opticks-devs mailing list on sourceforge.net and NOT on this site (opticks.org). The reason subscription is required is to cut down on spam to the list.

Once you have subscribed, you can post a question by sending an e-mail to opticks-devs@lists.sourceforge.net.

Subscribe to get new messages via e-mail

In order to get new messages via e-mail, you must subscribe to the opticks-devs mailing list on sourceforge.net and NOT on this site (opticks.org).

---

Need Answered Right Now?

Don't forget you can use our real-time chat to get a question answered as well.